LA SIERRA UNIVERSITY
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA 92515

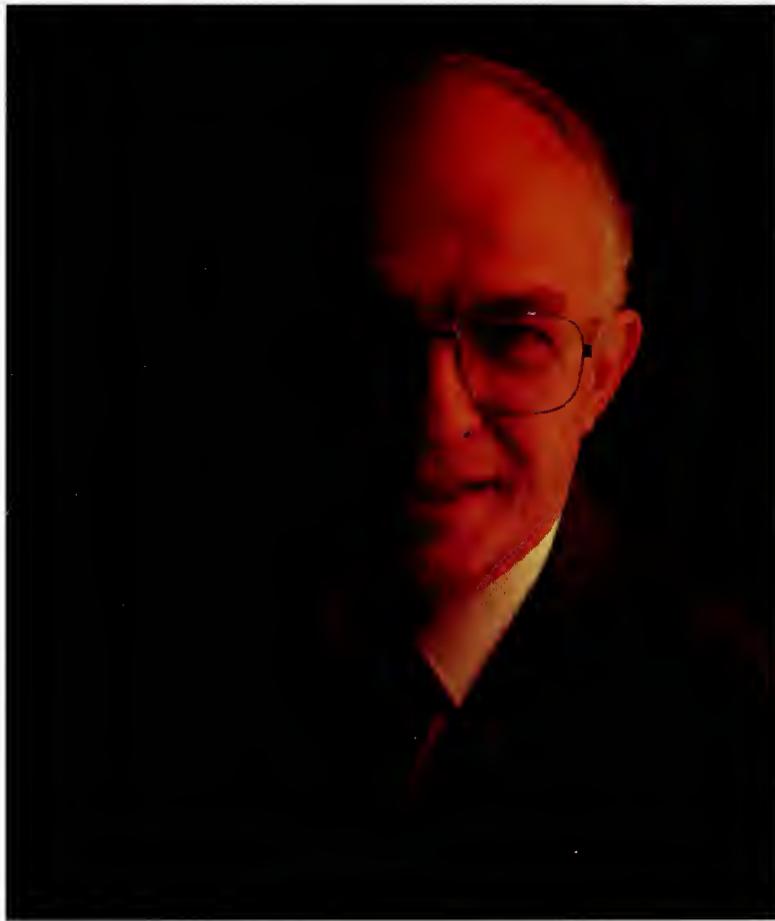

In your hands you hold the yearbook that many thought would never be. Well here it is! It wasn't easy. Great amounts of time and energy were spent to produce VISIONS '93. Tears were shed over this book, accusations were made, rumors were started, creators went through many sleepless nights, some even slept on chairs for a few hours of sleep. All of this was done for you—the students of La Sierra University.

When you look through this book, you will think back on the memorable experiences of the 1992-93 schoolyear. All your teachers (good and bad), your classes, your activities and most importantly your friends. The friends who stood with you through the storms of life and made you laugh when you needed to. Friends who talked late into the night with you. The friends we cried with, sang with, went roller skating with, and went out late at night just to get a bite to eat. The friends who helped you study for that big test or helped you with those homework problems. These friends might not always be with us, but we hope that this yearbook will keep these memories alive for a long time.

Now we reach the end of yet another epoch at La Sierra. We reflect on the happy, depressing, exciting, passionate, romantic, suspenseful experiences we have lived through. In VISIONS '93, the creators have tried to capture these experiences and memories of the 1992-1993 school year. We hope that this book will give you an eternal glimpse of the La Sierra spirit.

Dedicated to Dr. Fritz Guy

We want to express our gratitude for your two decades of service to La Sierra, which began when—less than a decade after your graduation—you returned to teach at your alma mater.

We want to let you know how much we value your commitment to making La Sierra a real university—in fact and not just in name.

We want to proffer our thanks for your ongoing reminders that we can and must form an inclusive community where people are respected and affirmed without regard to race, gender, lifestyle, or ideology.

We like your off-beat sense of humor. We like your intellectual seriousness and your enthusiasm for learning, writing, and teaching. We like your willingness to consider fresh possibilities and fresh ideas, to explore new ways of organizing the university, rewarding our teachers, fostering research, and managing La Sierra's student life program.

We prize your kindness, your caring wisdom, and your non-judgmental, open attitude; we share the deep appreciation voiced by the alumna who said of you, "He lets you be responsible for yourself."

And we want to thank you for the rich intellectual and spiritual feast we know you'll be offering us when you return to classroom teaching next year.

Because we are grateful for what you give to us, to your university, and to the church, we dedicate this yearbook to you, our President, Fritz Guy.

Trust in the Lord with all your heart,
and lean not on your own understanding;
In all your ways acknowledge Him,
and he shall direct your paths.

Proverbs 3:5

*Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind.
This is the first and greatest commandment.*

Matthew 22:37

GLOBAL VILLAGE '92

If you walked onto campus in mid-October this year, your eyes and ears would not have been the only things confronted by something different. Your entire world view would have been challenged; your southern California suburban perspective broadened, to say the least.

What hit was Global Village '92, an exhibit of nine third-world habitats constructed on our campus and visited by some 20,000 people, 15,000 of them southern California school children.

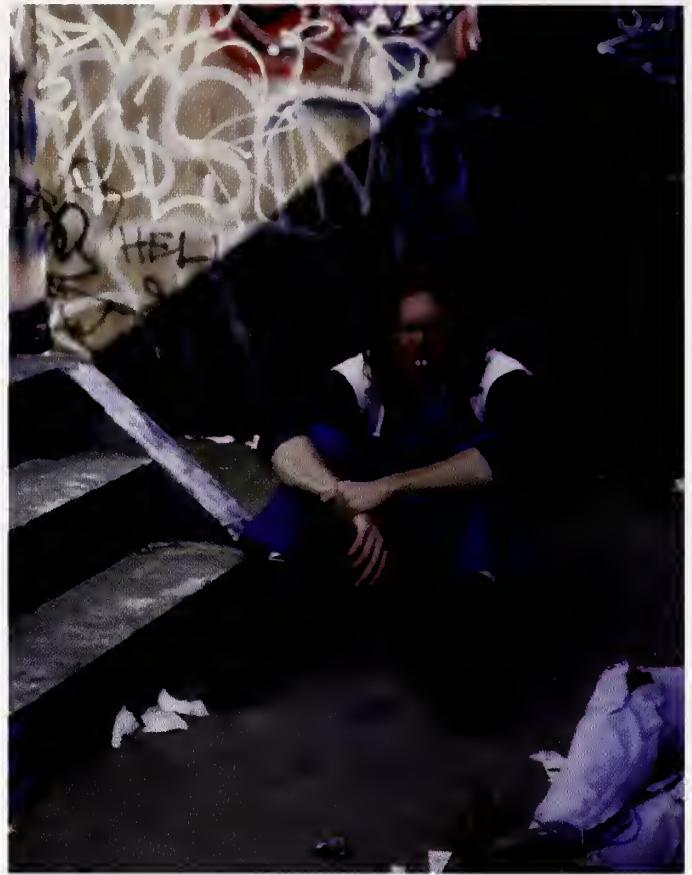

From the beginning, it was clear that Global Village was too big an item to be contained in a single story. From university students studying cultural differences late last summer and spending their free time leading guided tours through the Village in October, to the guest speakers, lunch-time events and auxiliary campus exhibits, all of these were part of the event. But beyond that, past the mega media coverage (full-page section front in the L.A. Times, four section front page stories in the Riverside Press-Enterprise, NBC, ABC, CBS news coverage, a mention by Willard Scott on the Today Show, coverage in periodicals such as the Chronicle of Higher Education, plus numerous articles in the Adventist press, including the Pacific Union Recorder, and the Adventist Review - to name just a few - and there are many more), Global Village left a deep impression on the campus and community - one that will be a part of those students' lives for all time.

Hawaiian

Legs pounding, people screaming, hearts thumping, as the evening exploded with the traditional end of the year event, "The Hawaiian Luau." Bright lights and an estimated 500 students in attendance flooded the pool area adjacent to the Alumni Pavilion to view and experience the best La Sierra University party of the year.

Sponsored by the Student Association and Islander Club, this traditional event is seen by some as the zenith in the production of cultural dances, food, and decoration. With cut palm branches swaying from wall to wall, accented with brightly colored flowers, one would have thought that La Sierra University was transported from Riverside to the island of Maui or Guam.

Though a little breezy that evening, warm giggles and haughty laughter warmed the would be chilly night. And no evening could remain frozen for too long, especially with M. C. Nuese S. Puni introducing the booming drums and crashing cymbals that called the history of cultures to perform for La Sierra University students and faculty.

The evening ended with "fire," literally. Sean Sofotu, a renowned Samoan dancer, showed his stuff. Twirling a fiery orange torch up and down, side to side, back and forth, again and again, faster and faster, as the evening ended in a blaze of glory.

He nervously approached her, heart thumping, sweat pouring, legs trembling. "Cornellia, will you go with me to the Spring Banquet," he mumbled. With eyes tightly shut, he saw images of planes crashing, trains derailing, ships sinking, and "Cornellia rejecting."

"I would love to go with you Sparticus," Cornellia replied in an emphatic tone.

Scenes such as the one described above often take place before an SDA banquet. Why? I do not know!!! Anyhow, that evening, at the "Tale of the Whale" banquet pavilion in Newport Beach, the stormy hair and baggy eyes that often linger in early morning classes were not to be found; everyone looked so elegant and suave. Moreover, the food prepared was appealing to the eye as well as satisfying to the belly.

Seated around circular tables, the banquet hall was filled with music and drama provided by LSU students and a guest group by the name of "Resolution." All in all, hearts and hearts, side by side, hand in hand, girl with guy, the evening was a spectacular success.

Matthew 4:18

On Friday, June 4, four La Sierra University students were baptized in the ocean, off Corona Del Mar. Family, friends, and curious sun bathers edged to the shore as they witnessed a blonde man, Chaplain Steven Daily, walking with 4 excited individuals, one at a time, dressed in black robes, out into the cold ocean.

Gloria Banfield, Julie Lin, Joel Garbutt, and Andy Giles tasted the bitterness of the ocean as they were submerged, but immediately drank in the sweetness of liberation from the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit as they emerged out of the water. Their commitment to Christ was a witness to all who were present on the beach that evening.

Because of these faithful four, other students on the shore inquired as to how they may be baptized in Christ, not to mention the curious onlookers that watched eagerly on the wet sand. Indeed, Jesus will make us fishers of men and women when we follow Him.

*CORONA
DEL MAR*

What do you do when you have NO MORE!

A symbol of solidarity, a hopeful sign of what is yet to come, "Common Ground" was built with the money and enthusiasm of students, faculty, alumni, and friends of La Sierra University.

"Common Ground" was dedicated to God on Thursday, May 20, 1993.

"Supplied and seaworthy, La Sierra University is an intrepid ship, with direction, sailing yet to another port, SUCCESS. The captain of this ship, Dr. Fritz Guy, will be leading out in this expedition; the destination is clear, however, the winds and waters of influence will determine the expediency of this voyage and the safety of this ship.

We are the winds and waters of influence, (students, faculty, alumni, and friends). Many of us have been blowing opinions and views concerning the direction in which this fine institution should take. Moreover, even worse, some of us are creating waves that may be "rocking the boat" a little too much, almost to the point of capsizing this vigilant vessel. Do we want this ship to sink?

The tides must turn, if La Sierra University is to reach the port of SUCCESS. This year's voyage, with it's share of uncertainty, with its sporadic reports of mutiny, with its scares of scurvy, will succeed if, and only if, the winds and waters of influence "blow" and "flow" in unison. Students, faculty, alumni, and friends of this ship must now act together, support each other, and be of "one feather." Commonality should be our goal. Our captain needs us.

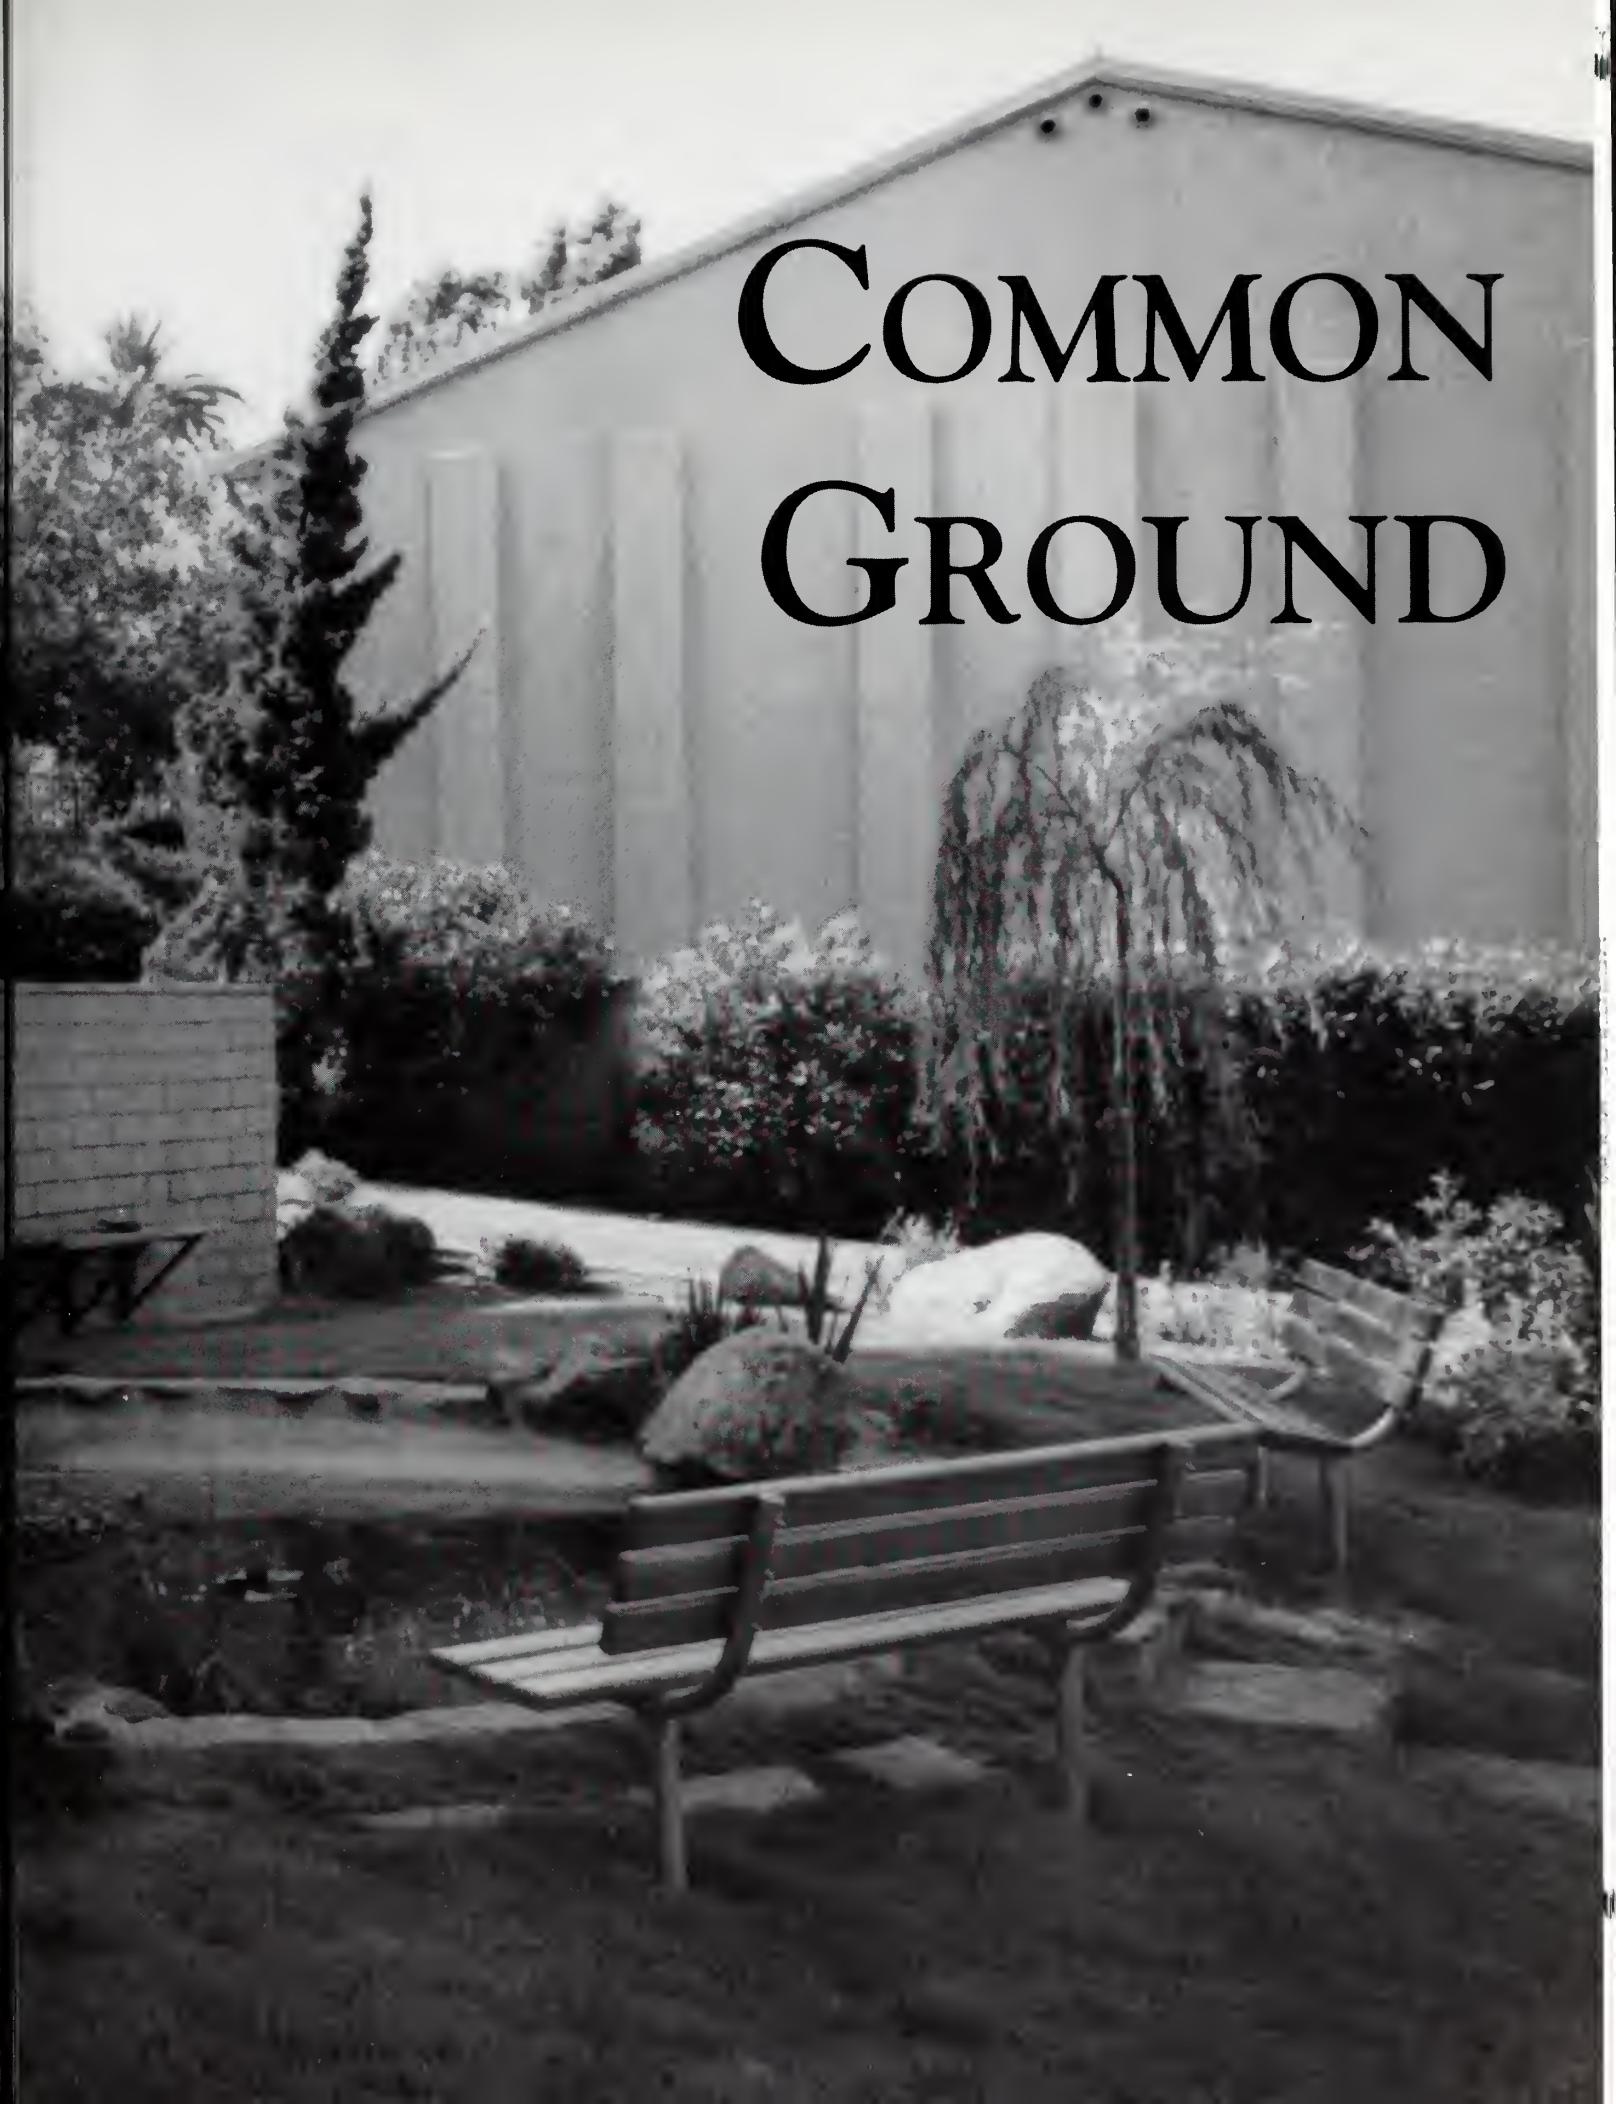

As we travel through this year, Dr. Fritz Guy will be peering through his telescope, over the blue waters, beyond the blanketed sky, praying to God that the "winds and waters" will save the ship. He knows that more ships have been lost at sea by "stormy weather," rather than to the popular fable of drunken sea captains shattering ships on coastal rock.

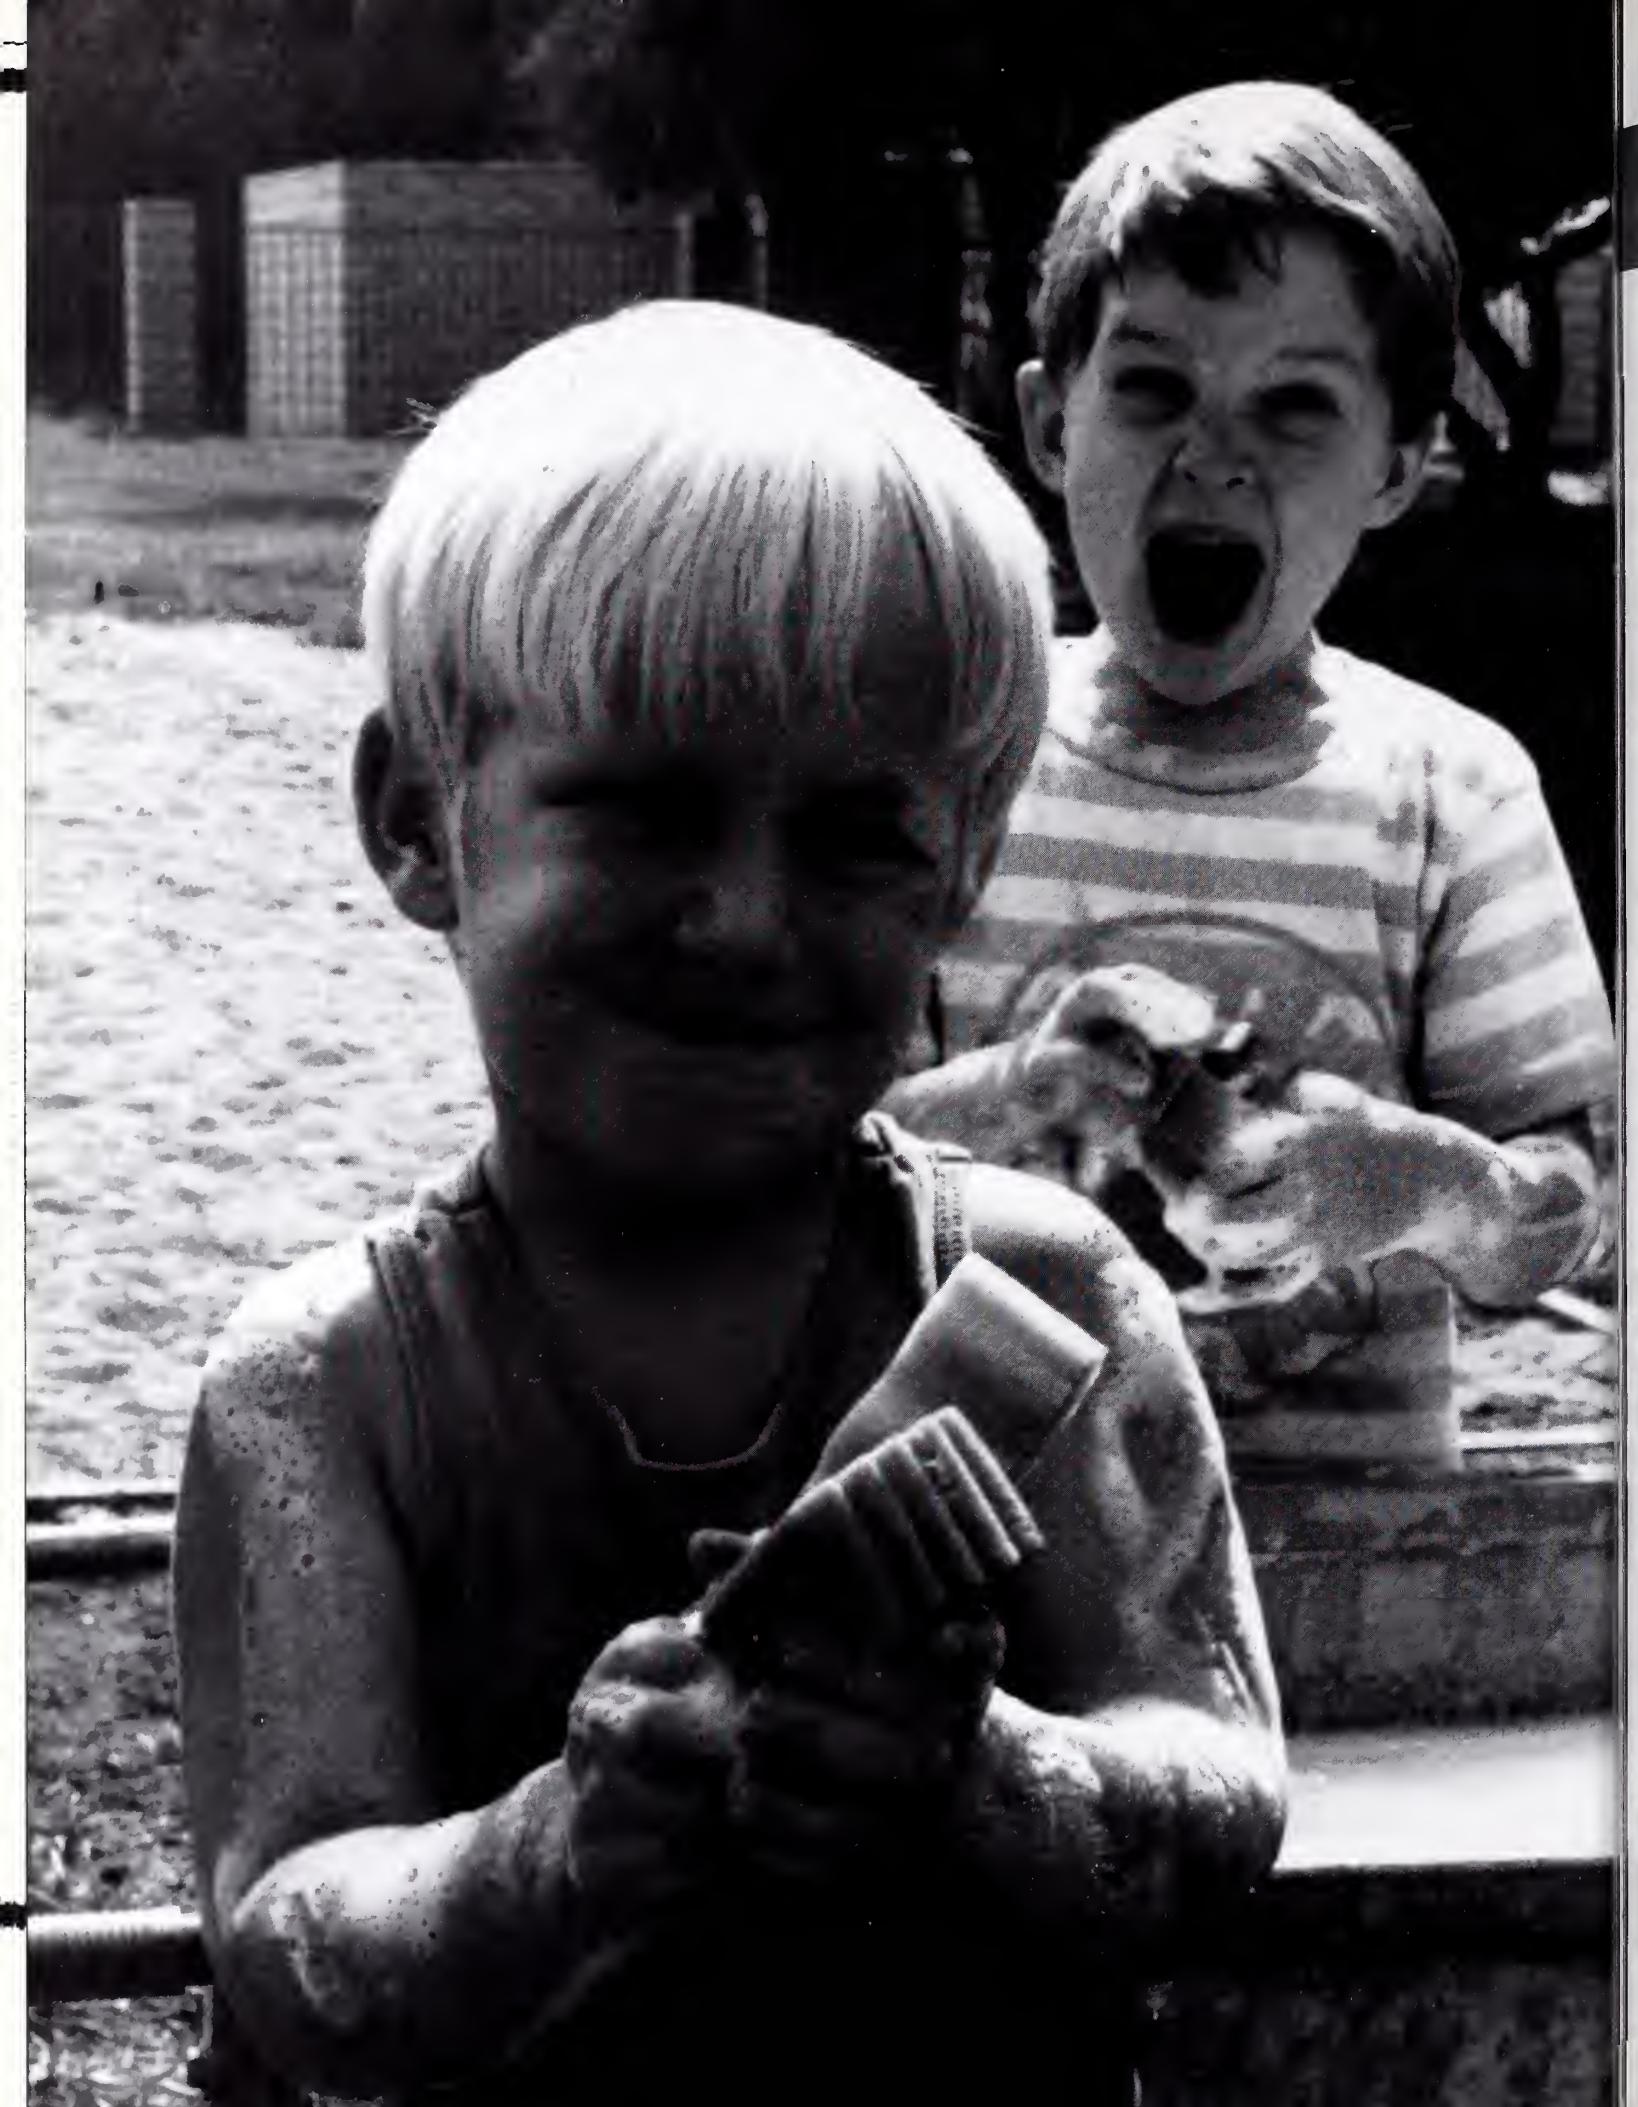

It is my prayer that all of us , students, faculty, alumni, and friends function as one crew on our ship we call La Sierra University. Despite all our different points of views and interests, we must never forget that there is one supreme navigator that is instructing us to be disciplined as well as loving above and below deck. With God, LSU will be able to brave any storm. "Better to be in a furious storm with God, than a safe harbor without Him." Let us not forget our destination...Port of Success."

- 2.1.0. Role and composition of Senate. The Senate exercises student legislative power when the student body is not in session. In addition, it approves or rejects the appointment of each student nominated as an appointed executive officer, a member of a student committee, or a student member of a University committee.
- 2.1.1. Senators are:
  - a. the elected and appointed student government executive officers;
  - b. the editors of official student publications, as defined by this document;
  - c. twelve senators at-large, including three freshmen, elected by the entire student body;
  - d. the members of the student committees; and
  - e. one student representative from each University-recognized club or similar student organization, chosen in a manner determined by the club or organization.

SALSU SPONSOR Dr. Nelson Thomas

This past school year, Dr. Nelson Thomas served in five capacities: Dean of Student Life, Director of International Students, Director of Advising and Placement, Student Association Sponsor, and loving husband. Skilled and competent in all four capacities, the Student Association benefited greatly from his untiring devotion and critical concern in the area of student government.

He walks with students. He talks with students. In all aspects, Dr. Nelson Thomas is one of LSU's finest leaders.

CONGRATULATIONS TO GRADUATE LESLEY VANDERHOOF

You have finished another phase of your life, with mountains, valleys, laughter and tears, with the Lord's help. There are many challenges ahead, with more mountains, valleys, laughter and tears. But anything is possible with the Lord's help. May God lead you always. We are proud of you and love you.

Dad, Mom and Grandpa

Dear Kari,

Through the years it has been fun seeing you grow from a darling, loving child to a beautiful, caring adult. Our lives are fuller because of you. With your drive and loving heart, we know you will make this world a better place. You are a delightful person, and we love you dearly.

Mom and Dad

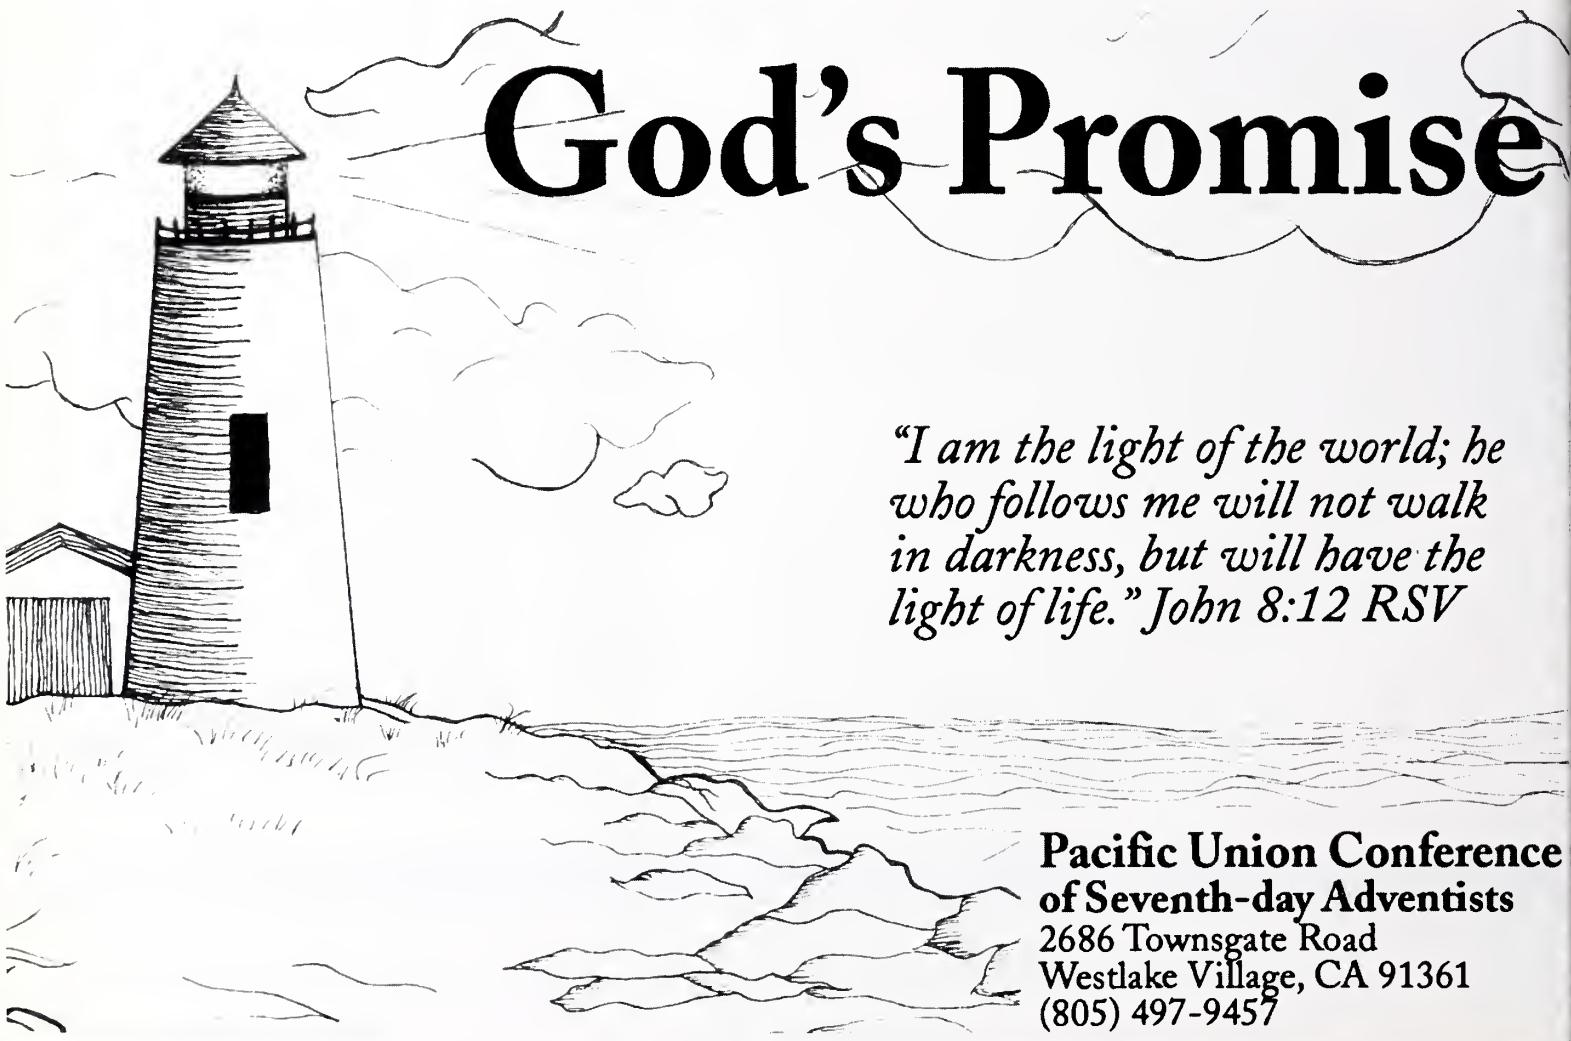

Seniors,

As you leave this university, you take with you memories of this time of anger, elation, growth, and happiness. We urge you not to put these experiences in some small dark shoebox deep in your closet. All of us, graduating and those of us not yet ready, together we made our time incredible.

Never slow down,
grab life and live it!

BEST WISHES FROM LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY
MEDICAL CENTER

Congratulations Graduates!

Four years ago you set out to accomplish a goal—and you've succeeded. You are now ready to face the countless challenges that await you. Some of you will continue your education; others will face exciting new job opportunities. Regardless of where you are going, you have earned the self confidence that excellent education has fostered.

Loma Linda University Medical Center encourages you in whatever you do. We hope that your life is filled with interesting and exceptional experiences that enhance your mental as well as your spiritual development. We wish you the best—now and forever.

You are Here!

Unforeseen power is at work this very moment, planning the scenarios in people's lives for tomorrow. One sleeps expecting one thing but to their surprise finds unforeseen ground.

We at the yearbook staff of 1993 were drawn together by this unforeseen power and were put to work on one of the hardest task in life, cranking out this book.

We all started with common ground, common motivation and especially common pressures, but we all came in with different perspectives. Sometimes we drew away from each other when our paths crossed, sometimes we merged on common ideas and thoughts. We pointed fingers; we gave a helping hand.

We, as a staff, worked with each other 24 hours a day for the four months that were given to us. We got on each others nerves but at the end became good friends. All in all, we learned a little more about life and each other and we worked hard and got the job done. For all the good and bad times, for all the stress and high blood pressure, I can honestly say that I loved the staff I worked with.

Jane, you were a God sent miracle in the time of need. Julio, you were there when I stumbled to provide leadership. Angel, you devil you, how can you live with all that radiation from the screen and without sleep? Pam and Bassam. You were the unseen help. Things just seemed to get done overnight. Amy, searching for ads can be one of the most rejecting jobs a person could have but you hung in there. And Merv, thanks for all the pictures you were able to take and develop for us in a hurry when we needed them.

Sometimes I wasn't there for you guys but you guys just crunched right along and cranked out this book. As we go our separate ways, now that our job is done, all I can wish for you guys is success and the ever present God in your lives.

Where shall we go to
We graduated from High school or Academy
Registered at La Sierra University
without a prize from the California Lottery

Where shall they go to
Blessed with fortune from above
They leave their home states on designated times
The foreign place people call the Golden State.
A place of heat, cold fronts and deserts

Where are they going to possessing everything their heart desires with some credit, loans and scholarships
We live up to the dream of Martin L. King

Where shall we go to
Coming from all corners of the world
Ambitiously seeking a future
Some of us also reached out and missed a turn on the road to success
Self-confidence and determination is our slogan

There shall we go to
The eternal classes and Laboratories
Where professors don't bore us

No clearances to go through or pictures to be taken
Medical and Law schools we will attend
Our GPA's will exponentially grow

Hard will we work
sweat of our tears will we shed
Drops of blood will we cry

Where are we going to Make the correct turn pursue the right direction
we will surely reach our destination

We find companions from the opposite sex some for life, others temporarily
But it made our journey colorful

We are prepared to travel in case the landlord throws us out ready to eat the bread of students wherever our ways may lead to
So help us God Almighty.

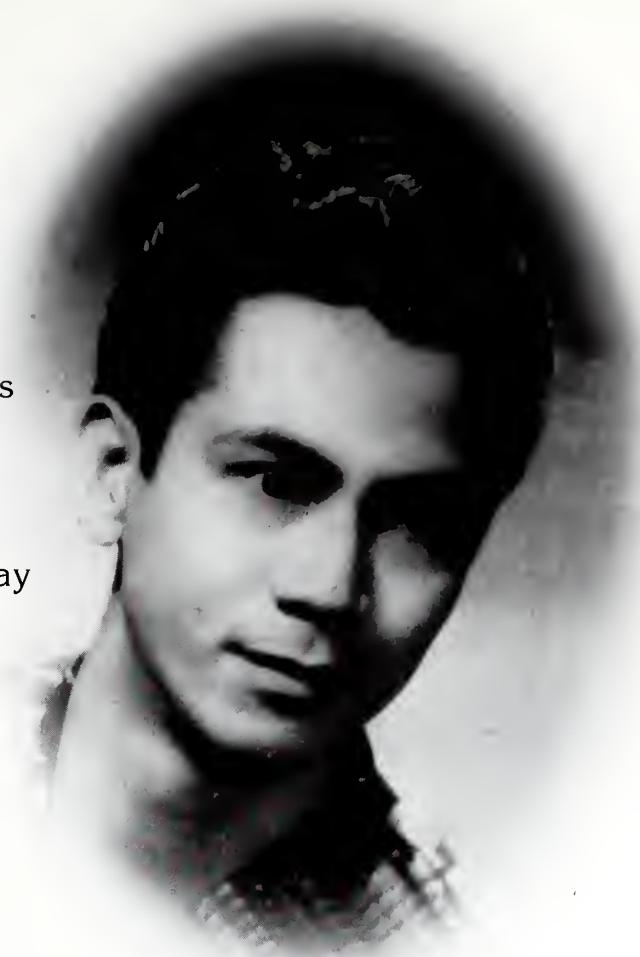

Julio

Dad...

Why do I dare to dream great things?
Even the mightiest cables and the fiercest chains
That only omnipotence can break
Will neither shackle nor jail my aspirations
Because of you.

The storms of distress
The thunder of opposition
The floods of failure do not sweep me away
I have stood strong
Because of you.

Seas go dry
Stars fall from sky
The sun will die
But my love for what is honest and true is steadfast and unbending
Because of you.

Mom...

Why do I humbly kneel before dreaming?
Others before self
Humility before honor
God before glory
Are indelible hallmarks
Stamped upon my heart
Because of you.

To be forgiving and not exacting
Compassion for the hurting
Kindness to the bitter-hearted
Are my daily companions
Because of you.

Goodness my goal
Happiness my hope
Family my foundation
Because of you.

Everything I am or ever aspire to be, I owe to God and both of you.

We would welcome a new family to our community,. Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Geraty. As Dr. Geraty takes office as president of La Sierra University, we hope for a future full of dynamic change, growth and strengthening.
